VASTNESS OF GRAND CANYON
Few persons can realize on a first view of the Grand Canyon that it is more than a mile deep and from 8 to 10 miles wide. The cliffs descending to its depths form a succession of picturesque forms, mostly on a titanic scale, fashioned mainly by erosion by running water, the agent which has excavated the canyon. (U. S. Geological Survey).

The Hundred Point Six

Is An Unusual Automobile

And you have doubtless heard some of the compliments bestowed upon it by discriminating motorists in this little old town of ours.

They all say the same thing, "A Wonderful Car, a Beauty in looks, a Trojan in performance."

It does everything worth while that higher priced cars do, runs like a Swiss watch, knows no hills, a revelation in simplicity, power, quiet, economy and refinement.

Like all quality products it is all good things blended, but it means more; it is the union of the best in materials, the best in workmanship, and the topmost in supervision and honest effort.

Quality is demanded more and more, because those who produce it in goods or services, set the pace that the trailers must follow.

As sure as the sun sets, and the moon and stars light the heavens above will Kissel Kars become a standard, for quality displays itself through use, and is pointed out by experience, and sooner or later the public will sift the true from the false, and a line of goods become a standard.

To Kissel quality we add the quality of sales arguments and systems, believing that we can attain quicker results. But with quality in one and its lack in the other, the results must average up to compensate for the difference.

We know there is no value like it on the American market. You'll know it, too, immediately you see it, ride in it, and check up its Hundred Quality Features.
